MUST CURE OR REFUND.

If a doctor guarantees to cure or to refund the money, his guarantee is legal and the money can be recovered—such was the decision in the district court yesterday. In the case of Nancy Lundberg against the Greenhalgh Remedy company. In November, 1907, the medical company agreed to cure Miss Lundberg of fits in a reasonable time for $100; but in August, 1908, the plaintiff brought suit for the money, as no cure had been effected. The decision was given in her favor in both the lower court and the district court.

Day Sentence.

W. P. Dalten sat in a game of bluff in the police court this morning and lost 60 days' liberty. With G. H. Rogers, Dalton was up on a petty larceny charge. According to D. F. Macomber, manager of the E. P. Chariton & Co.'s store, 251 south Main street, the two young fellows had attempted the advantage of taking out a quantity of articles from the store without the formality of paying for them. Dalton was sure, during his hearing, that he could identify the cashler to whom he paid the money for the articles found in his possession, but when the court granted time in which the defendant could obtain the witness, the prisoner fell down and in exonerating his companion admitted his guilt of the theft. Rogers was discharged and Dalton was given 60 days in the city jail. Day Sentence.

ICE FAMINE NOT LIKELY.

From all indications there is no likelinood of Sait Lake having an ice famine hood of Sait Lake having an ice ramine this year, or for some years to come, as the city now has on hand considerable ratural ice, besides four artificial ice plants with capacities of from 100 to 200 tons per day, with another large plant now building. The average daily consumption of the city is said to be between 200 and 300 tons. There are seven ice dealers in the city with a daily output of from 25 to 75 tons each, and the prospects are that even during this bilstering weather there will be ample ice for all purposes.

OWNER AND JOCKEY PLAY SMOOTH GAME

The Talent and Those Who Were Bumped Just Learn Facts.

FAIR MEDDLER RAN HERE

Under Guise of Lady McDowell Her Owner Made His Stake and Hurried Away.

In a very smooth game, the details of which have just come to light, Perry Reed, owner, and Jockey Stewart, worked in a "ringer" at Buena Vista a week ago Monday afternoon and 'cleaned" up about $15,000. While the Utah Jockey club only suffered a loss of about $5,000 on its books, most of the money was played on outside pool the money was played on outside pool rooms.

Some of the "touts" who began to "dope up" the animal discovered that the real "Lady McDowell," for that was the name given the pony, was dead, and then they began looking for the "ringer." Reed shipped from Nebraska and in a few days they received information from that point which put them on to the game.

When Reed came into the betting ring to make his third big cleaning he found that his horse had been discovered. The odds had been backed down by heavy play. So to get even, he "double cros ed" the "touts" who had spolled his "ame and Jockey Stewart pulled the horse, allowing the second choice to win on which Reed had placed his money.

Reed barely had enough money to pay his stahle fees after shipping into Sait Lake, but he left with a good purse. The first race he bet all he had and cleaned up $1,500. The next race he put every dollar he had on his horse and made $15,000. On the double cross he worked, Reed won about $2,000 and made his get away, taking the horse with him.

If Edward Corrigan, the veteran horse

with him.

If Edward Corrigan, the veteran horse owner, had not got "wise" to the game, Reed might have still been here, the officials of the track being too slow to catch on to any kind of game. He led the horse up and claimed in a selling race and Reed had to clear out to retain the mare.

Lady McDowell, the "ringer" was no other horse than Fair Meddler, one of the fastest six furlong horses in the east, where she raced for two seasons and won stakes valued at $38,000. Reed shipped the animal in about 10 days after the meet started with a stable of three other horses. "Lady McDowell" was in poor condition when she arrived here and was not started for several days. In the first race on July 6, Lady McDowell, 10 to 1, won the race from an ordinary bunch of horses. Jockey Stewart held the mare back with a net, making a good race the face from an ordinary bunch of horses. Jockey Stewart held the mare back with a net, making a good race out of the finish. Reed backed his horse in the betting ring with all the money he had and cleaned up about $1,500, besides the purse. The second time the horse came out, she won from a fast field and Reed hit the local books up for about $5,000 at a good price and telegraphed money to a number of different cities where it was laid in pool rooms by betting commissioners. In this race Jockey Stewart had a hard time keeping the mare from running away from the field. Reed and Stewart, however, had "cleaned" up a big roll and some of the "touts" got wise and attempted to find out where Reed came from and what horse he had.

THE SECRET GETS OUT.

Before the third race was run in which Lady McDowell was entered, the secret got out. The day of the third race when Reed went to the betting ring he found that his horse had been backed down from 12 to 1 to 3 to 1 by the "touts" and gamblers who had got onto the game.

horse and he bet his money against the animal. Stewart had a hard time keeping the horse from winning, pulling her into the fence. After the race E. Corrigan, whose suspicion had been aroused, bid the horse up and claimed her for $800. Reed led the pony back her for $800. Reed led the pony back to the stable and Jockey Stewart rode her off the grounds into the country. When Corrigan went to get the horse, she was gone and no trace of her can be found. Reed shipped his other two horses out of the state and then Presiding Judge F. St. D. Skinner ruled him off the turf for life and Jockey

Stewart also.

Rood's game was to place his money on the horse in outside pool rooms and protect the local books so that he could protect the local books so that he could get a good price on his animal. When the real name of the horse was dis-covered and all the "touts" got in and then were given the double cross, they took to the mourners' bench on one of the many "surethings" which they played during the meet played during the meet.

MAY EXTRADITE WOMAN SWINDLER

Mrs. E. L. Kraimer as Told by the News.

As a result of the facts revealed in the Deseret Evening News Monday evening concerning the clever swindler, Mrs. E. L. Kraimer, who for a period of eight or nine months passed worthless checks of sums less than $50 on the grocers and merchants of this city, Gov. William Spry held a special investigation this morning to look over the evidence as presented in The News and to consider the advisability of issuing extradition papers for the return of Mrs. Kraimer from Rock Spings, Wyo., where she has joined her devoted husband.

Mrs. Kraimer was just clever enough to avoid passing worthless check for sums over $50 and thus she kept her operations within the misdemeanor lest reach its transitivation of the results of the content of the

CASE OF GOMPERS MITCHELL & MORRISON

Company and Will Wait on Action Of Atty.-Gen. Wickersham.

Washington, July 20.-Until officials of the department of justice communicate with Atty. Gen. Wickersham, now en route to Alaska, no announcement will be made here concerning the procedure which may be had in the pending prosecutions of officials of the American Federation of Labor, growing out of their troubles with the Buck Stove & Range company of St. Louis.

Notwithstanding the agreement reached in Cincinnati last night by representatives of the federation and the Stove Founders' National Defense association to end the warfare, no assurances were forthcoming that the surances were forthcoming that the cases against President Gompers. Vice President John Mitchell and Secy. Frank Morrison for contempt of court would be discontinued.

These cases are pending in the United States supreme court.

It is pointed out that while the contempt proceedings were pushed by the attorneys of the stove company, which has now withdrawn these legal representatives, the case has gone beyond them and the issue is at present one of national law and the dignity of the courts. CONVENTION OF ANCIENT
